Dedication J. Fernald Mitchell, Superintendent 1951-'55

On the annual staff of 1954-'55, dedicate the "Lineymo" to one who has served our school faithfully, who has had an understanding of our needs, and who has labored unselfishly for the complete education of every student in Houston School.

The word EDUCATION has had a tremendous influence upon our development. The founding fathers established "diffusion of knowledge" as a foundation upon which to build America. Thomas Jefferson, Horace Mann, and others argued that education of our youth was a function and an obligation of the state. This has become an accepted principle and it behooves each citizen to look carefully into the welfare of his local school.

"A patriot is known by the interest he takes in the education of the young. Education is our only political safety. Our side of this ark, all is deluge." Horace Mann

LEFT TO RIGHT: Ross Kilpatrick; William H. Christie; Norman Parker; Dr. V. V. Skaggs, President; Raymond Duff, Treasurer; Elmer Murfin, Secretary; Superintendent, J. B. Mitchell.

I hope this Pineymo will be a pleasant reminder of happy and worth-while experiences for all students who attended Houston School during the school year of 1954-1955.

Stormy Weather

When the storm clouds start to gather,
When the rains begin to fall,
Remember, dear, that story weather
Has to come to each and all.
All can smile when life is calling--
When the sun shines on the dew;
But few can smile when rains are falling--
Can you be one of those few?

Every cloud is lined with silver;
There's a rainbow after rain;
And the sunshine follows shadow
Just as gladness follows pain.
At the end of every rainbow
There's a pot of gold, I'm told.
At the end of every heartache
There's a joy that's never cold.

When the sunshine is all shadow
'Round the path to Jesus' fold;
When it seems there is no gladness,
And the rainbow has no gold;
When it seems the storm is endless
And your star has never shined;
When it seems that you are friendless
And the clouds aren't silver-lined:

For each one of you I'm asking--
Dear God, be it not in vain--
May you find much peace and comfort
In the rainbow after rain;
May your star be brightly shining
'Round about the Master's fold;
May you find the silver lining;
May you find the pot of gold.

The student council is composed of thirteen members: a student president, the president of each class, one boy and one girl from each class.

The objectives of the student council are: to create opportunities for closer co-operation between students and the teaching staff, to foster worthy school activities, and to train for worthy citizenship.

The student council is always willing to assist in any school activity.

We hope that the education of the youth of our community will fit them to meet the basic requirements of healthful living in a modern environment. Healthful living for the new age means that we must have more than a sound mind and a sound body. A necessary part of the equipment of every human being is social health, the ability to live in harmony with other people. Complete physical, mental, and social well-being is a requirement basic to the future happiness and usefulness of the students of our schools.

Valedictory Address----Tilitha Pounds
Parents, faculty, classmates, and friends.

This is a happy moment for me but also a sad one; because, although I have finished what I started out to do, I am now faced with the task of telling you all goodbye. It is rather hard for me because you all mean so much to me.

These past four years have been the happiest part of my life. They have passed much too quickly for me. I don't believe a truer statement has ever been made than the old Latin proverb "Tempus fugit"--time flies.

As I look back through the years, I realize that there are many things a graduate can say to the underclassmen. To the Freshmen, I would tell you to study. To the Sophomores, use your time well--every minute of it. To the Juniors there is only one thing to say, as we step out you are stepping into our place. We have finished our course; your race is still to be run. May you have the greatest success in life, now and always. Seniors, there is nothing I can say to you. You know how I feel. No Valedictorian has ever had a more wonderful class than the Class of 1955. I sincerely hope that each of you will succeed in whatever you do.

I'm sure that most of you know that I want to be an author. You probably know, too, that I have already done some writing. In closing, I would like to read to you my favorite of all that I have written. And I would like to dedicate it to the faculty and the student body; to H. H. S.; but especially to you, the Class of '55--my class.
